OPEN VERDICT GIVEN, DEATH OF FLETCHERS

Coroner's Jury Deliberates Less Than Twenty Minutes

Deliberating less than 20 minutes, a coroner's jury returned an "open verdict" at the inquest into the death of Arthur Fletcher, 68, yesterday. Fletcher was the 16-year-old stepdaughter, Mabel, who died of multiple injuries received when they struck by a car driven by a 21-year-old Leduc truck driver, on 104 street, between 69 and 70th Avenue, at about 10:30 p.m. on Dec. 22. The inquiry into the double fatality, at which Provincial Coroners' Commissioner G. C. McSisted, was held in the court room of the police station, Wednesday afternoon.

Long before proceedings began, the court room was crowded with spectators who jostled to get a glimpse of the deceased. When the jury was sworn in, a clamorous mass followed the accident and later released on a charge of $100,000 when arranged in court. The coroner's jury, however, did not give evidence. A jury man requested that the coroner allow him to speak. Dr. J. E. Hartman, who presided, said he would let him speak. Zeilke will appear in police court, January 5 for preliminary hearing on the manslaughter charge.

CAUSE OF DEATH

Dr. John Morrison, pathologist at the Royal Alberta Hospital, told of the injuries received by Fletcher and his wife. Both were found dead in their home. Fletcher's death was due to fractured skull and multiple pleural injuries.

Continuing his examination of the car, the brake test, indicated the speed at which the car had stopped, the average car would stop at 35 miles an hour.

The cause of Zeilke's truck weren't very good," said Joseph Brown, brake expert. "There was a great deal of wear on the front wheels and only slight pressure on the front ones. I would say that the front ones were about 10 per cent efficient," he concluded.

Dr. F. A. Kellor, reliable traffic engineer, examined the accident and how he found the elderly Fletcher dead in his bed.

Abdication of King Edward three

Constable Gerald Black, of the South Side police station who responded to the call to the scene of the accident, said of finding both the man and woman lying dead in a house at 6224 104 street:

NO SNOW ON GROUND

"I went to the scene of the accident and found snow on the ground. The girl's body was picked up 117 feet from where she was standing when she was found. Following the usual proceedings, at all accidents I interview the persons believed to have been aboard the overloaded excursion launch Zeilke when she struck the bridge. I found that the man, day, had not been recovered.

"He was shaken up and because there was no one else in the boat, I thought the man was dead. I told him he was and he started to cry. He then made a statement that he had been in a truck a few hours before coming to Edmonton and had consumed a large amount of whisky. He said that he had broken the front wheel of his truck."

ACROSS OLADEEN

H. S. McCloud, police traffic investigator, produced a chart of the scene of the accident and indicated the distance between the point of impact and the point where the car came to a standstill. "The car had a standstill about 10 feet after a jump, a few feet, then drove to Edmonton after picking up my brother. When we got to the bridge, we went to a local hotel and had a few beers. From there we came to the station and bought some Christmas presents. We then went to a barber shop, went to the truck, picked up Lingberg and Hartman, and bought some liquor, bought some liquor, went to a service station, filled up with gas and then started off on the trail, he said.

When we were final aware of the accident, we heard Mr. McCloud, saying the crown.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS

When Zeilke told me of the glaring headlights of the approaching car, he replied.

With this, Mr. McCloud replied: "Yes, you are correct to be a pretty honest witness."

"No, they didn't ask me," was the reply.

Mr. McCloud then asked the witness whether there was one other in the car, the husband and wife. "Yes, young Hartman and Leslie Lingberg, whom we had picked up, were with us," witness replied.

"You did not tell me this, did you?" asked Mr. McCloud.

"No, they didn't ask me," was the reply.

When we were final aware of the accident, we heard Mr. McCloud, saying the crown.

"It is not true that you sent the two youths, Hartman and Lingberg, away with the liquor you had pur-

MINERS FACE INCREASE IN MEDICAL AID

Assessment for Workmen's Compensation To Be Boosted

DRUMHELLER, Dec. 31.—Alberta miners face a forty per cent increase in medical aid assessment for 1937. Coal operators will be called upon to pay an extra $100 per ton for workmen's compensation assessment as against $47.5 in the past year.

Official announcement of compensation rates was made at a meeting of the Alberta Council of Miners.

Chairman of the council, Dr. W. H. Drumheller, said that the abroad for many kinds of basic products. Industrial activity is steadily increasing. Trade at home is showing the influence of new buying power. Trade abroad is responding to the opportunities presented by the opening up of the world after the war. The nations are recovering from the impulse to isolate themselves and may resume the normal interchange of products. Naturally, the outlook for the future is not entirely encouraging.

It may also be hoped the year will bring us nearer to a solution of some of the difficulties created by the depression, or by the factors which produced the depression. Progress in that matter will be in proportion to the courage and resource with which we meet the problem. The cities and municipal councils grapple with the problems of unemployment, public debt, excess taxation, and a host of minor disabilities and inequities with which the nation has been struggling.

We in Alberta must necessarily look into the future with less assurance than people in the other provinces. We are committed to a "great experiment," the outcome of which is yet uncertain, but the ultimate effects of which will affect us all. We must do our best to avert adverse.

At least the coming year should see the Social Credit plan brought into actual operation. That being on the program, the sooner it is undertaken the better. Preparation must be done now to meet the emergency.

For the time being Albertans are out of step with their fellow-Canadians. How far are we to get, and with what results to ourselves and them, should be known before the end of 1938. Look for the uncertainty which will hang fire in the direction. Albertans would greet the new year with restored hope and strong confidence.

Fifty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

Last mail brought notices from the H. B. here regarding the original purchasers of lots here received them to be paid in full. As the lots were to be issued to them, as the lots passed out of their hands long ago there are at a loss what to do.

Christmas day was cold but calm and unpleasing. Business generally was suspended, but day and night there was a great deal of activity. There was more than the usual number of drunks and fights deemed necessary fittingly to celebrate the birth of the Saviour.

The ball given by non-commissioned officers was held in the hall of the police at St. Saskatchewan on Tuesday a grand affair. It was given in Palace hotel, which afforded plenty of room, and neither pains nor expense were spared in any particular. All the partitions in the hall were removed so that the entire room could give room for dancing. Music was furnished by D. Garneau and C. Henderson. Supper was served upstairs and was a credit to the caterer, Mr. Heinlein. Upwards of 200 attended. Dancing began at 9 o'clock and continued until daylight.

FOURTY YEARS AGO

The agitation for financial reform is spreading rapidly in India.

Reported that Laurier was offered and declined knighthood.

France and Germany are greatly to increase their armies.

Spanish forces and Cuban insurgents fought a battle yesterday at Pinar Del Rio.

A serious dispute has arisen between Nicaragua and Columbia over the possession of the Corinto Islands.

A protest has been entered against the return of McCreary as mayor of Winnipeg.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Bissett's saddle-making factory, Strathcona, was opened by five partners.

Premier Scott is critically ill at Regina.

An urgent despatch has arrived from Nicaragua.

A protest has been entered against the return of McCreary as mayor of Winnipeg.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

London: During the past year the French have captured 78,700 prisoners and the British 40,800.

London: Examination of the report of the Naval Enquiry Board which was issued yesterday by Sir George Percy reveals that, in detailed observations, the report agrees with criticism by Col. Bruce.

Washington: Charges of a "kick" of advance information in President Wilson's peace note, involving other charges that somebody made money on it on the stock exchanges, gained official notice today.

TEEN YEARS AGO

Washington: The practice of "steering" industrial alcohol, to prevent it being consumed, will be abandoned, the poisoning not having stopped the consumption.

The Monetary Times hazards an estimate that Canadians will have a larger population than the U.S. in 1927.

December bank clearings in Edmonton, $4,560,734.

Montreal: Canadians and U.S. officials have uncovered the biggest narcotics trade "ring" on regardless of the mile-posts we set up along the border. The bands of 1935 will carry on into 1936, apparently will work on the calendar, and the forces set going will knock their heads unsmiling if how we reckon time.

WHY WE CELEBRATE?
Then why all the fuss about New Years? And particularly why the jubilation because a year is ending? Tennyson of course gave the sanction of gentility to the custom, but one wonders why he was so wise. The Old Year, the "New Year, the "Old Year" did it make any difference that people went to bed in one year and got up in another? Or sat up half the night to pull bell ropes and blow horns when the clock struck twelve?

After all, 1936 has not for most of us been nearly as bad as it might have been. And how do we know that 1937 will be any better? It will be different, undoubtedly, but maybe the difference will be nothing to cheer about: 1932 was different from 1931, but nobody sent up fireworks to show how happy the difference made him.

In sober fact tomorrow will be much like today. But for the arbitrary decision of the calendar, we would be celebrating tonight in anticipation of any notable change anything. The tide of human affairs flows on regardless of the mile-posts we set up along the border. The bands of 1935 will carry on into 1936, apparently will work on the calendar, and the forces set going will knock their heads unsmiling if how we reckon time.

"Hope springs eternal"; that no doubt explains why we rejoice to see one year go and another come, even though it is to be "blest." Past good dimensions, retrospective ways ("the best is yet to be"). Somewhere in the future lies the golden age, and men forget that they are mortal as they speed the fleeting years.

Perhaps in 1937 the dreams will come true!

THE OUTLOOK

Canadians may with reasonable confidence expect that 1937 will see a continuance of the improvement in conditions which made itself apparent in 1936. There is a sustained demand for evaluation in the gold bloc" says abstention of deflation because that policy failed to achieve the conditions necessary to recovery. After years of struggle, France found it impracticable to bring her economic structure into line with the lower cost of living and toward United States dollars. Interestingly, in growing internal stress she had abandoned a year ago the only policy compatible with the maintenance of the old party—that of deflation, of cost reduction.

When this programme of contraction was adopted, the franc was still at par with the dollar, only a matter of time until the franc's value in gold was revised downward.—From the Monthly Review issued by the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Wedding Vows Spoken Under Evergreen Arch

Evergreen archway of cedar boughs was the setting for the wedding of Miss Anna Krull, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Krull and Lloyd Melville MacMillan, of Edmonton. George MacMillan of Bienville, was performing. The bride's gown which was fashioned on princess lines. Her arms were filled with Olympia roses.

Mr. Krull gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Bertha Krull of Victoria, British Columbia, was the sister's bridegroom and chose for her a full skirted frock of coral embroidery. She wore a broad cuffled sleeve jacket. She wore a band of brilliant in her hair, and silver bracelets.

The bridegroom's brother, Mr. George MacMillan of Picaville, stepped in to act as best man.

Mrs. Thomas MacMillan of Picaville played the wedding music at the church. The bride's mother, Mrs. Charles McCaughey of Picaville, sang "I Love You Truly."

Mr. Krull chose a smart black suit, crepe and velvet worn with a variety of accessories for his daughter's wedding, while Mr. MacMillan who also remained with the bridal party, wore a prettily embroidered jacket with her black lace gown. Her flowers were red roses.

An attractive color scheme in pink, white and black was used on the bistro table which was decorated with a four-tiered wedding cake, a large bunch of carnations and graced with tall pink papers in silver candelabra and vases of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Krull and Mrs. MacMillan, Sr., poured tea and Mrs. K. Smith was in charge of the refreshments. Assisting were Mrs. George Foster, Mrs. John Sommers, Miss Betty Smith, Miss Ruth Dinsdale, Miss May Low, Miss Grace Low, Miss Jean Power and Miss Ruth Krull.

Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan have left on a honeymoon trip to California and will be at home to their friends Dec. 31 and the first of the end of February.

To travel in style this bride and groom were born with a black velvet coat and a black velvet turban. His accessories were in black, too.

In Festive Mood . . .

There's no place like home or the home of your friends, is there, to watch the Old Year out and the New Year in? And whether you are guests to someone or are guests yourselves, a pretty table set for the evening refreshments always adds to the gaiety of the occasion. The one pictured is in red, green and white crepe paper, with plates, cups, saucers, bread and butter, place cards and napkins all matching. Instantly, salad, sandwiches, cake, ice cream and coffee is a simple but good menu to serve. Happy New Year!

Palace Exhibit Nets $1200 For Hospital Aids

Vigorous, the episode of Rotarians in a local hotel brought into the shadowed lives of crippled children of Edmonton by visiting dignitaries from the United States was well received. Mr. A. W. Burns, president of the Rotary service organization, presented the $1200 cheque to Mrs. Emery and Mrs. Fuller, and expressed the hope that the money would be nobly used for the alleviation of suffering.

Claiming wide interest among the many gay affairs which have been held in the city during the past few months ago, the Rotary club has been delegated by Sir Nevile to contribute the funds to crippled children.

Mr. Burrell thanked citizens of Edmonton and district who had made it possible, through their contributions, to realize $1200. It also gratified the club committee headed by Dr. Harold Orr for its splendid co-operation in carrying out all details of the campaign.

Finally, amidst the cheer of modern Christmas? This question inspired a clever story. Mr. Holland, on Tuesday evening at the delightful program arranged by the Dickens Fellowship in the Institute of Applied Arts building, told the tale of the story. Jolly gams and continuous singing were enjoyed during the evening. Mr. John Morris, piano, and Mr. John Morris, violin, viewed the highlights of the national broadcast heard on Christmas Eve.

In the absence of Mr. H. R. Lovell, Miss Minnie Donaldson came the guests, among whom was Miss Dorothy Watts, a visitor from Chicago.

Mr. Lovell, Dr. and Mrs. C. Shaughnessy, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Maunders, Mr. and Mrs. William Adams, Mr. and Mrs. William Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. and Mrs. Philip Seelye, Bert Cairns, George Hill and V. Hayward.

Mr. Burrell thanked citizens of Edmonton and district who had made it possible, through their contributions, to realize $1200. It also gratified the club committee headed by Dr. Harold Orr for its splendid co-operation in carrying out all details of the campaign.

Finally, amidst the cheer of modern Christmas? This question inspired a clever story. Mr. Holland, on Tuesday evening at the delightful program arranged by the Dickens Fellowship in the Institute of Applied Arts building, told the tale of the story. Jolly gams and continuous singing were enjoyed during the evening. Mr. John Morris, piano, and Mr. John Morris, violin, viewed the highlights of the national broadcast heard on Christmas Eve.

In the absence of Mr. H. R. Lovell, Miss Minnie Donaldson came the guests, among whom was Miss Dorothy Watts, a visitor from Chicago.

Mr. Lovell, Dr. and Mrs. C. Shaughnessy, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Maunders, Mr. and Mrs. William Adams, Mr. and Mrs. William Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. and Mrs. Philip Seelye, Bert Cairns, George Hill and V. Hayward.

This sum represents the proceeds from the exhibition of the new Rotarian calendar for the few months ago. The Rotary club has been delegated by Sir Nevile to contribute the funds to crippled children.

Coal Miners To Ask Higher Wage

LONDON, Dec. 31—British coal miners soon will open a drive for higher wages, it was reported today following a decision by the executive committee of the Miners' Federation to convene a meeting of the miners throughout the country to discuss the question of wages. The miners' committee consists of both employers' and miners' representatives.

ENDLESS SEARCH

Most of the merchandise sold in our Stores is produced in Canada. It is our business to stock our Stores with Canadian products, interesting, useful and offering good value to our customers.

In our Stores in these Western cities we sell, everywhere else in the world we are represented by Buyers. At any moment a Buyer steps out of our store he is actually in the market, as the rise of local industries in Western Canada has brought some markets very close to us. Naturally the industrial centres of Quebec and Ontario are the great sources of supply for the goods which our customers want. We operate Buying Offices at Montreal and Toronto, so that our Retail Stores are constantly in touch with manufacturers.

Thus in Canada the endless search goes on, but it is not in Canada alone. On three continents throughout 1937 we will have our Buyers at work—men and women trained as Buyers for the Canadian consumer will be searching and buying in Great Britain, Ireland, Europe, Asia and America. Because these Buyers are trained and alert to your requirements, we feel sure our Stores will be more interesting and more useful to our customers than ever before.

As this new year comes upon us and everyone is conscious of a quickening of the pulse of business, we look forward to continued good relationships with manufacturers on one hand, and consumers on the other.

New Year's Greetings

To our customers, our friends, our co-workers; to all those from whom we buy and to whom we sell—New Year's Greetings!

In our business of selling merchandise and rendering services, we hope to share in the prosperity to which this country looks forward in the year 1937. To keep our Stores forever interesting and useful to our customers, we are constantly active and alert in the markets of the world.

On this page we give you a glimpse of our Retail Store facilities, and set out the markets, where we have Buying Offices, so that we may serve you.

BUYING OFFICES

A visit to our Buying Offices would be a trip around the world. You will find them—

In Western Canada—at each of the stores at the following points:

YEAR 1936 MARKED BY IMPORTANT EVENTS IN EDMONTON

Edmonton Will Join In Welcome Tonight To Baby Year 1937

WITH shrieking of sirens, blowing of whistles, honking of horns, the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the expressions of good will for the next 12 months, Edmonton will welcome 1937. Throughout the city as a whole, preparations have been made on a bigger, broader and more comprehensive scale than ever before to ring out the old year and ring in the new.

On all sides there are evidences that the New Year will be happily celebrated here, with joyous entertainments planned on in all sections of the city.

There will be celebrations of many kinds, religious, festive and gay.

Many offices will close early and make ample preparation for the big event.

There will be a round of visiting and calls, all the time, during the gathering of a robust, youthful population of the good residents.

Local churches will have night services throughout the duration, which will usher in the New Year.

Southern Alberta will be well decked themselves whole-heartedly to the occasion, and festive and gay will be the parties of importance in the jollification.

On New Year's Day, Mrs. C. H. Trimble, Mayor of Edmonton, and Governor will hold a reception at noon.

Social functions will play the most prominent part in the city's celebration of the New Year, as indicated by the fact that the whole year is one of joviality.

Best Wishes . . .

STONEWALL IN HOLIDAY MOOD, HAS MESSAGE

Urges Children To Avoid Accidents During Coming Year

From friend of every boy and girl in Edmonton, strong believer in "safety first," and volunteer traffic supervisor at several schools in the city, Stonewall Jackson, a colorful city character, has his own special message for Edmonton children.

He urges boys to be safe while hooking players, skaters, skiers and others fond of outdoor sports.

Also, he urges the New Year visitors to let loose and noise that probably will last a week, to be wary of parts of all the city, giving ample demonstration that Edmonton is indeed a Happy New Year.

Stonewall Jackson, in his annual address, said:

"Hello Kiddies! Stonewall wishes you all a Happy New Year. I want you all to keep a sharp look out to avoid accidents. Please pay close attention when Chief Shute has warning about playing on the streets."

STONEWALL JACKSON.

With Us Today

As this is the last issue we are giving you a few pointers on the care of your eyes, which we hope will help you to keep them in good condition.

These are simple, definite ways where you can help yourself.

First, always clean your eyes.

Secondly, always wear glasses if you need them.

Thirdly, never sleep with your eyes open.

Fourthly, never strain your eyes.

Fifthly, never strain your eyes.

Finally, never strain your eyes.

Remember, rest is to be able to relax the muscles of the eye, and then do them means only to strain them again.

Look at distant objects, closing the eyes, and Nature's natural rest period will be given.

This is the best way to rest the eyes.

Under ordinary circumstances, the eyes are strained when they are forced to work for a few seconds at a time, and this is the reason they feel least when they are not working.

Gently closing the eyes is another good way to rest them.

You doubt noticed that when your eyes are tired, you may notice them straining.

This is the result of the methods for resting the eyes.

Hockey Advances

TONIGHT the year 1936 will go into the files of history. It was a year of big news and events—few more eventful ones have ever been written into the records. From London to Timbuktu things were happening in a wild turmoil which the uninitiated onlooker might have considered a form of chronic insanity. What is more, that same onlooker would have been approximately correct in his diagnosis.

Sport had its full share of big breaks—and big busts. Trying to get a bird's-eye view of the 1936 picture requires almost a telescopic accent. Things were happening in both hemispheres that rated banner lines. To present any kind of a review to all, you have to grab a few highlights and let it go at that.

To begin with, 1936 was an Olympic year. This was because it happened to be four years since one of those international shindigs had been held. The results were impressive as usual and followed by the usual post-Olympic charges of inefficiency, bumbus and monkey business.

After pouring over miles of copy on the games while they were in progress—and afterward, too, the following are the only things we can remember: (1) Eleanor Holm Jarrett went home by Tap Diddle of the U. S. from the 1932 games with her personal best record in swimming; (2) Canada made a come-back in hockey; (3) Canada finished somewhere else in the point standing; (4) Colored sprinters showed shiny heels to Hitler's highly-touted Aryans—also in the Nodules and Semantics. This was important, since it proved they were fast runners, about which there was some doubt, oh, so many years ago. (5) Canada's men's basketball team, led by the brilliant coach, George Thompson, won the world championship; (6) Canada's women's basketball team, led by the brilliant coach, Johnny Fischer, was the champion professional and amateur golfers respectively; and that four seas are still pretty safe to let on.

When the results were all tabulated it was found that the British Isles still had the best swimming team, while the United States and Australia were still the two greatest powers, that the New York Yankees are world champions in baseball; that Jim Braddock is the heavy-weight boxing champ of the world; that Fred Perry is the world's best player, that Canada remains the world's foremost hockey country; that Minnesota is undoubtedly the world's best golf team, that Edmonton Grads are world champions in women's basketball; that Tony Manero and Johnny Fischer are the champion professional and amateur golfers respectively; and that four seas are still pretty safe to let on.

These Things Were All Memorable

FAILURES likewise loomed big in the year's story of sport. The biggest upset came on that evening in New York when Max Schmeling exploded a carefully pieced promotional build-up by knocking out Joe Louis. The promoters were not discouraged, however, and started the Louis build-up all over again. This was the only event of note in one of the dreariest years in the history of heavyweight boxing.

In Canadian football, the season wound up in a unique and unusual contest in which Regina Roughriders challenged anyone in the Dominion to guess what they would do during the next 24 hours. The Roughriders beat everybody hands down. As a result Nfld. Imperialists are Dominion champs and there is likely to be a right hot show-down all the time when the governors of the Western Canada Union meet again.

In baseball the big disappointment was the dismal sixth place finish of the Boston Red Sox—the gold-plated team that Tom Yawkey spent a fortune on. Yawkey came into baseball with a genuine love of the game, youthful enthusiasm and a bank full of cash. He gave a mighty chunk of currency to old Comby Mack for a park full of first magnitude stars and when he got underway they looked more like candles on a birthday cake than like stars.

It was the old, old prima donna problem that ruined the Red Sox. Joe Cronin tried to get the most out of them by catering to their whims and they repaid him with a resounding kick in the pants. Each star was intensely interested in himself and nobody else. Ferrell and Grove were among the worst offenders. At the recent winter meeting of ball men, Yawkey tried to sell Yerell back to Cochrane and Mickey just grinned. "You can't give him to me—ever for a Christmas present," he told Yawkey.

But for grand individual effort of the 1936 ball season, the laurel wreath goes to Dizzy Dean. His mighty arm came within an ace of Jane the Cards in the big finale. The sensational finds of the year were Joe DiMaggio and Bob Feller.

Hockey Has Eventful Year

CANADIAN amateur hockey blazed brave new trails in 1936. Most important of all—for greater than the incidental rooster of championships was the fact that the C.A.H.A. cut loose from the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada in its drive toward honest and practical amateur standards. This may be the starting of a virtuous new deal in amateur sports.

The year also brought working agreements between all hockey-playing countries, a set of alliances that may eliminate many of the restrictions to which the game has been subject. In addition, 1936 saw England execute raids on Canadian amateur ranks that left them seriously depleted in calibre. The year marked the greatest boom hockey has ever enjoyed in Europe.

Because Team Refused To Pay—Under Threat

Montreal, Dec. 31—Jean Pusie

said angrily last night the Providence Reds could keep their hooker home without pay until he paid $100 fine.

If Providence does that, Dr. W. J. Dunn, the club's doctor, said, he will quit. "I guess I'll go back to work," Dunn said.

The Bronk victory over their rivals, the Rangers, was the 10th in a row since the team returned to the International American club reorganized by the players, who gave him a recall assault on a returner. And he is going to stay here until he gets paid.

He'll be a hard man to phase.

Montreal's Jean Pusie informed, that he quit the early Saturday night.

BOOGIE HERE TODAY

The party of the Christmas party at "The Holiday Inn," the de Forest Hotel, New York, was ending when PEARL SAM DE FOREST, 21, of Bronx Park, N.Y., went with a knife in his throat.

For a moment it was thought the first name "Pearl"! As a family name, however, it was considered PEARL JOHN in the young man's case.

Others at the house are: TANTE JOSEPHINE, Mrs. John's mother; BETTY WELCH, her young companion; and ROBERT RICHARDSON, GENEVIEVE ARETTA, cousin of Alvin Karpis, and ROBERT GRAHAM, his friend.

It is believed that Pearl Sam had been at the house during the night.

The body of Pearl Sam, placed in the hands of Tante Josephine, was found in her room. In the pocket of his coat were the names of the brothers of Pearl Sam's murderer.

It was learned from the police that the body of Pearl Sam had been found in the room of Tante Josephine.

Pearl Sam evidently was impressed with the logic of this, for when Tante Josephine asked him if he was going to kill himself, he walked over to the Indian who stood waiting in the doorway.

"Broken Shield," he refused to destroy the obsidian knife, did not want to kill himself, to conceal his hatred for the man.

"It was the cultural reply. The Indian was silent.

"And you had no love for either of my dead brothers, did you?" Pearl John went on.

"I have," Broken Shield said.

"But you know that the man who caused your death would drive him from me. The tribe always gave him land."

"Yes, but that didn't stop the star chief from taking all the money of my family's mine in payment for it, just the same," snarped de Forest.

"I would like to see him again. I think you have reason to kill any of us if you took the notion, although I am glad to see you and feel most of your life."

"Are you sure the knife hasn't fallen to the floor or something?" he asked.

"Yes, sir. The knife was removed with some force," he said.

It is a mighty strong arm struck with the knife, the first blow passed his hand severely across his forearm, but he did not do any good to it. If any of you know anything about this, this He would like to see him again. Suddenly he jerked himself together and ordered a servant to call Professor.

The preceptor had seemed to have the strongest reason for not wanting to be disturbed, but when he was the only one who had been out of the room since he had become ill, he had given up.

"I'm sending two men down, he said. Santa Fe tonight," Pearl John went on. "They can probably get through, even if the road is snowed in. The officers will be here tomorrow morning, at least."

"I'm glad you've taken such a stand, de Forest," remarked Professor, smiling. "Even though we're just then. You wished to see me."

"To ask if you have the obsidian knife," said Pearl John.

"What do you mean?" the professor asked.

"Just this. As you already know, the knife has been taken, scalped by some Indians. But you know where we're so interested in it, perhaps we'll be kind enough to hand it over."

For a moment the professor did not answer, though everyone in the room waited breathlessly for his words. Then he said, matter-of-factly:
